About the Magazine Grands Prix Fellowship

In conjunction with the new awards program, the Magazine Grands Prix have also introduced a paid fellowship to support emerging magazine writers.

Magazine Grands Prix Fellowships support Canadian journalists, students and recent graduates as they work on stories that explore issues that matter to our country. Fellows—working on-site or remotely—will learn from lead mentors at a host publication, and gain valuable experience in various areas of the magazine business.

Fellowship topics will change each year to reflect major issues in the national conversation. The inaugural theme for 2017 is Indigenous Issues.

Interested host magazines can submit an expression of interest to participate in the 2017 fellowship program. The Fellow, awarded April 27, 2017, will choose their host magazine from the eligible expressions of interest. Please see the program details below for more information.

Customized fellowships agreed to by the Fellow and the host magazine are possible in order to respond to special circumstances including but not limited to: disability, child care, elder care or travel restrictions.

A Fellow's stipend is covered by the Magazine Grand Prix Fellowships program and includes a contribution from the host magazine.

Magazine Grands Prix Fellowships are open to Canadian journalists, landed immigrants, students and recent graduates.

Visit maggrandsprix.ca/fellowships for more information on the fellowship program.

Fellowship Program Details

Number of Fellows per awards cycle: In 2017, the Magazine Grands Prix will award one (1) Fellowship. More Fellowships may be awarded in subsequent years as per available budget.

Duration of Fellowship: Minimum duration of four (4) months. Maximum duration of six (6) months.

Budget of Fellowship: $10,000 per Fellow, with:

- $5,000 paid by the Magazine Grands Prix
- $5,000 paid by the host publication

$8,000 will be paid to the Fellow over the duration of the fellowship, with $2,000 in reserve for travel and/or seed money.

Start Date of Fellowship: In an effort to provide as much flexibility as possible for both the Fellow and the host magazine, the start date and structure of the fellowship will be jointly determined and agreed upon by the Fellow and host magazine, with the only parameters being the four- to six-month duration of the fellowship.

Eligible Host Magazines: Any Canadian magazine media brand that is majority Canadian-owned is eligible to host a Magazine Grands Prix Fellow. The magazine does not have to be a member of Magazines Canada to be an eligible host.
